Chapter 349: The Fifth Divine Jewel

The absorption of The Annihilator's Essence had granted Sung Jin-Woo an unparalleled surge in power, but it was not enough to satisfy the ever-growing potential within him. As his divine energy coalesced and expanded, the need for a new source of power became undeniable.

His four divine jewels, already imbued with the essence of creation, destruction, and the multiverse’s lifeblood, had served him well. But now, there was a shift—a beckoning call for further evolution.

The Call for Evolution

Sung Jin-Woo stood in the heart of the Umbra Citadel, his wings unfurled and his form radiating with divine power. The energy around him trembled as his divine jewels pulsed, resonating with an intensity that spread throughout the Absolute Realm. The Essence of Eternity, the very force that now coursed through his veins, sought to merge with him on a deeper level.

He could feel it—the call for ascension. His power, once thought to be at its peak, was now demanding more. The realms themselves seemed to hum in response, as if awaiting the arrival of something greater.

In that moment, Sung Jin-Woo closed his eyes and embraced the call. His connection to the Divine Triad, his essence, and the multiverse itself deepened once more. The divine jewels within his body reacted, resonating with the frequency of his evolving being.

The Fifth Divine Jewel

As the divine power surged through him, the space around Sung Jin-Woo seemed to crackle with energy. His four jewels glowed brighter, but it was the fifth jewel—forming at his forehead—that became the focal point of his evolution.

The fifth divine jewel began to materialize at the center of his forehead, its form swirling with radiant light. It pulsed with an otherworldly energy, different from the previous jewels. This jewel, unlike the others, carried the essence of both creation and destruction—a perfect balance that transcended both forces. It was the essence of pure existence itself, a symbol of his newfound divinity.

As the jewel solidified, its radiant glow fused with the three jewels already present on his forehead. Now, the once single, radiant center of his forehead became a nexus of divine power, with three jewels glowing in harmonious synchrony.

The energy surged within him, causing his form to flicker with divine light. His wings expanded, and the power of the newly formed jewel flowed into every fiber of his being. His body became a perfect vessel for the combined forces of creation, destruction, and existence, pushing him beyond his previous limitations.

The Significance of the Fifth Jewel

The appearance of the fifth jewel at his forehead marked a new chapter in Sung Jin-Woo’s evolution. His forehead, now adorned with three divine jewels, was a testament to his unparalleled power and his connection to the very fabric of reality. The five jewels—each representing a fundamental aspect of existence—now resonated together, making Sung Jin-Woo not just a god, but the embodiment of balance itself.

With this new power, Sung Jin-Woo's perception of the multiverse shifted. He could now feel the flow of life and death across the realms with an ease he had never known before. The delicate balance between creation and destruction, order and chaos, was now within his grasp.

The Transformation Complete

As the last of the divine light settled around him, Sung Jin-Woo opened his eyes. His gaze was sharper, more focused than ever before. The presence of the three jewels on his forehead was a symbol of his ascension, an evolution that had made him a being beyond comprehension. His very essence was now an extension of the Absolute Realm, a reflection of the divine order he had set in motion.

The realms trembled as his power flowed through them, ensuring their continued existence, expansion, and protection. He was not just a god of creation, but a guardian of balance—a protector of all life, an enforcer of the multiverse's harmony.

Sung Jin-Woo raised his hand to his forehead, feeling the three jewels pulsating beneath his skin. His power was more immense than ever, and yet, it was tempered with a sense of purpose and clarity.

Sung Jin-Woo: "This is not the end. It is only the beginning."

With those words, he spread his wings wide, a beacon of divine power that resonated across the Absolute Realm. His evolution was complete, but his mission—his vision—was far from over. The multiverse was vast, and Sung Jin-Woo now stood at its center, a protector, a creator, and a force of balance like no other.
